JUDGES TOP TIPS

By Syl Saller;

1. Read

Winning is not a dark art - there's lots of information to help you get this right.

If you are a marketing society member – and if you're not, why not – you can review the winners from previous years. See how others have told their story, used their data – and emulate the best of the best. Read the entire awards website, watch the videos and imagine your teams celebrating a win or making it on the shortlist.

And if you have questions – contact the fabulous Siobhan who runs our awards.

2. Regale

Tell your story in a captivating way. Think about judges reading through many, many entries that they diligently review– what's going to stand out?

They are looking for; brevity, clarity, relevance, evidence... often less is more, so long as the less is faultless.

3. Rigour

I can't tell you how important this is. We have a group of judges who can see through the BS and who know what great results look like. Don't call sales uplifts return on investment – they're not the same and it's just annoying. We know that small companies don't have the same kind of econometrics that big companies do, and we allow for this.

Simple and strong numbers that tell the story accurately, work.

4. Reuse

Yes, you can enter multiple categories because there may be many things that contribute to a success story – insight, media plans, creative work. But don't just submit the same case – adapt it to meet that particular category.

5. Right team

It really is worth the small investment of time it takes to write an entry.

Just put the right people on it and that is often client and agency working together. Pick just a few people who will tell the story well and have it reviewed by someone who knows how awards work.

Top Tips from our 2023 Award Judges

“Clarity. Make it clear what made your work unique and what results it delivered. Results are everything. There's no point talking about a nice idea unless you can show it had real impact”. - Rebecca Hirst, CMO, EY

“Be clear about the consumer insight and data that led to the campaign. How has your brand shown that it understands its audience? How has your team engaged with that audience? And, as a result, grown brand love and delivered tangible outcomes for the business?” - Sarah Barron, CMO, Domino's

“Instant impact. Imagine you're the judge, what story can you tell that will have us mesmerised from the moment we start to read your entry and desperate to hear the end of the story?”. - Jessica Myers, CMO, The Very Group

“I have seen many awards where the content of the submissions were not addressing the questions asked in the award entry, and where there was no data to support the claims. Answer the question you are asked, and back it up with facts. It's that simple!” - Simonetta Rigo, Group CMO, Evelyn Partners
